BOTH MENTIONED IN TELEGRAMS

Names of Underwood and McAdoo Found by Probers.

ONE ALSO REFERS TO WILLIS

Committee Members Say One Message Disclosed That Pressure Was to Be Brought to Bear to Have Senator Walsh Refrain From Questioning an Important Witness, Reference Made to Others.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The names of Oscar W. Underwood and William G. McAdoo were found by the senate investigating committee in telegrams submitted to it in secret session. Both McAdoo and Underwood are candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

It was also given out that one of the telegrams yet unpublished refers to Senator Willis, a personal friend of Attorney General Daugherty. The telegram from one of McLean's operators states that Willis was working with certain parties in McLean's behalf.

Senator Underwood, the committee member said the telegram disclosed, was to be approached by A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general and counsel for E. B. McLean, to "work on" Senator Walsh in an effort to have him refrain from questioning McLean regarding a loan of $100,000 to Albert B. Fall.

McAdoo and his son, Francis H. McAdoo, a New York lawyer, were named in a telegram sent by McLean from Palm Beach to one of his employees in Washington. In this telegram, the senate committee member said, McLean told his man here to go to New York and "see McAdoo. You can trust him. Either he or his father has been my personal attorney for seven years."

Apparently the efforts to get Underwood and others to "work on" Walsh were unavailing, for, according to the committee member, one of McLean's men wired him a little later that "We are helpless. It's no use to do anything more. Walsh is in a fighting mood and has set his jaw."

Senator Walsh said that Senator Underwood had never come to him about any of the matter under investigation by the committee except once. That time, Walsh said, Underwood asked him if he had any objections to putting McLean's telegram to Palmer in the record. "Senator Underwood never attempted to dissuade me from doing anything. He came to me only this one time," Walsh said.

Committee members indicated that Francis H. McAdoo, A. Mitchell Palmer, "Doc" Sitters, White House Telegrapher John Major, employee of McLean, and possibly others mentioned would be subpoenaed.

References to McAdoo indicated his advice as a lawyer was being sought by McLean on matters the nature of which was not clear.

Official announcement that the mysterious "McAdoo" was the son of the Democratic leader was made by Chairman Lenrott of the committee after the telegrams had been read.

All the messages made public showed how closely McLean was kept informed of Washington developments regarding the naval oil scandal. John K. Major, one of McLean's employees, signed many of them.

She said her husband fired two shots.

Ohio Preacher and Church Soloist Placed Under Arrest.

Jamestown, N. Y., Feb. 28.—Police here are holding a man giving his name as Rev. Frederick H. Johnson, former pastor of Pilgrim Congregational church at Mansfield, O., and a young woman giving her name as Pearl Dubanpeck, church soloist, also of Mansfield. The police say the pair were living together as man and wife in a rooming house for two weeks since coming from Buffalo, where it is said they got rid of a high-priced automobile, a farewell gift to Rev. Johnson from admiring members of Mansfield parish when he resigned the pastorate. Rev. Johnson is said to have left a wife and 18-month-old daughter in Mansfield. His trip to Buffalo was to attend a Sunday school workers' convention. Police say a charge of violating the Mann act will be placed against the man.

HARPER AND THOMAS APPROVE PROPOSAL

Donahey Would Relieve Situation at Ohio Penitentiary.

Columbus, Feb. 28.—Welfare Director Harper and Warden Thomas have approved Governor Donahey's plan for relieving the present crowded conditions at the Ohio penitentiary.

The plan provides for increased production at the prison farm and installation of more industries to provide work for additional prisoners. The warden suggested more brick plants and said if the state had two or three more he could furnish men for them and relieve the congestion at the prison. Director Harper is negotiating for another brick plant, it was announced.

According to the warden, congestion will be relieved greatly when the new administration building at the London prison farm is completed. This building was started under the Cox administration, but construction was stopped under former Governor Davis. Director Harper resumed work on the building nearly a year ago. The appropriation for the building had been permitted to lapse, but Harper undertook to complete the work with prison labor and prison-made brick. Necessary funds were borrowed from the manufacturing and sales department and the building is nearing completion. It will house several hundred prisoners.

Crowded conditions at the penitentiary will be used by Governor Donahey as argument before the general assembly in support of a revival of the London farm prison program.

Will Not Resign Until After a Fair Hearing.

GOES TO CHICAGO ON BUSINESS

Says He Also Has Been Called to Florida on a Personal Matter and Will Return as Soon as Possible. Proper Attention to Be Given All Government Matters in the Meantime, He Adds.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Before his departure from Washington Attorney General Daugherty issued the following statement:

"I have been called to Florida on a personal matter, but I am compelled first to go to Chicago to attend to important government business which demands my personal attention. I will return from Florida as soon as I can. In the meantime, proper attention will be given to all government matters. The department of justice is functioning 100 per cent. Though temporarily absent, I shall, nevertheless, be in constant touch with the department. Several important cases and other pressing matters which require my personal attention will be taken along with me in order to facilitate action thereon."

"It is not my purpose to even consider tendering my resignation as attorney general until after a fair hearing on charges preferred against me."

Secrecy was maintained at the white house and among Daugherty's advisers regarding the series of white house conferences. First Paul Howland of Cleveland, Daugherty's personal counsel, saw President Coolidge. Then Daugherty, Secretary of War Weeks and Postmaster General New talked for more than an hour with Coolidge. Howland went back to the white house and later Daugherty was in consultation with the president for nearly two hours. Senator Curtis, Republican whip of the senate, also was called on by Coolidge. Curtis explained the parliamentary situation regarding the Wheeler resolution, which has been reported from committee and is ready for action.

Mr. Daugherty made to President Coolidge the declaration he would not resign until after a fair hearing of charges preferred against him. The president had laid before him in a conference of more than an hour the conclusions reached by the administration after a re-examination of the whole case. The white house refrained from any public statement, but it was evident that until Daugherty had announced definitely his refusal to retire under fire the belief in some administration quarters was that his resignation was imminent.

Hughes Says Late President Gave His Life to His Country.

"Warren G. Harding gave his life to his country," Hughes said. "No one can do more than that. He exhausted himself in service, a martyr in fidelity to the interests of the people, for whom he labored with a passionate devotion. He was a man of the people, indulging in no consciousness of superiority, incapable of arrogance, separated from them neither by experience nor by pride nor by eccentricity."

NOT AUTHORIZED BY MILLER ACT

Card Deputies Hold Positions Illegally, Says Crabbe.

ALL MAY BE FIRED, HE HOLDS

Retention or Dismissal Up to State Prohibition Commissioner, Says the Attorney General—Card Officers Drawing Sums in Some Cases, It Is Charged, to Which They Are Not Entitled—Hare Dissents.

Columbus, Feb. 28.—Appointment of "card agents" by the state prohibition department is declared by Attorney General Crabbe to be entirely without authority in law, and their activities illegal.

"There is no authority whatever for appointing these 'card' deputies, who go out over the state working in connection with justices of the peace," said Crabbe. "The law of Ohio is being violated in order to enforce another law, the prohibition law."

The Miller act, passed by the eighty-fourth general assembly, creating the present state prohibition department, does not authorize appointment of "card" prohibition officers, according to Crabbe. This act, he pointed out, provides for a prohibition commissioner, a deputy commissioner, not to exceed 20 inspectors and for the appointment of "such temporary inspectors as the emergency demands," their number to be fixed by the governor. These "temporary inspectors" shall be paid "not to exceed $10 a day and expenses."

The "card" agents are not paid by the state, but receive their compensation in percentages of the fines assessed against violators they arrest. They are issued cards by State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald and take their stations throughout the state. There are about 70 in the state.

Taking exception to Governor Donahey's recent statement that he would recommend to the next legislature that the "card" officers be abolished, Crabbe declared there was no necessity for such a recommendation. "There is no authority for them in the first instance," he said, "and legislation is therefore not required to remedy the situation. It is not necessary to wait for the legislature to prohibit their appointment."

Crabbe declared he believed the "card" agents are doing prohibition more harm than good. Thomas M. Hare, head of the Anti-Saloon league, challenges the attorney general's interpretation of the Miller law. He insists the Miller law does provide for the appointment of card deputies, saying they are named, on the recommendation of local organizations, when the local enforcement officers refuse to perform their duties.

FASCIST LEADER HEARD

Ludendorff, Hitler and Others Not Traitors, He Says.

Munich, Bavaria, Feb. 28.—General Ludendorff, Adolf Hitler and eight others on trial for treason were super-patriots and national saviors, not traitors, according to several witnesses. Dr. Friedrich Weber, head of the Oberland band, one of the most important of Bavarian fascist organizations, testified that the purpose of his organization was to "break the Versailles treaty at any cost and tear asunder the bonds binding Germany." His fascists, Dr. Weber said, wanted to "bridge class strife and create a new fatherland." He said he had believed Hitler to be the best man to unite the fatherland organizations, and that for this reason his "bund" co-operated with the fascist storm troops of Hitler.

AUTO TAGS INVOLVED

Plot Had Been Known For Weeks to the Prison Officials.

Columbus, Feb. 28.—Warden Thomas as stated that the automobile license tax plot had been known to prison officials for several weeks. They made no attempt to break it up, he said, wishing to capture those involved outside the prison as well as the convicts. Several sets of tags have been surreptitiously shipped from the prison to a Cleveland man, believed to be a paroled prisoner, and for whom Cleveland police are hunting. The tags were not duplicates, but were originals stolen from boxes of tags. The plan was to have the man on the outside sell the tags below the state price.

SUSPECT QUIZZED

Claims Bride Was Slain by Husband and Latter by Girl's Friends.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—According to William Engelke, arrested here, John Duffy, Philadelphia gunman, killed Maybelle Exley Duffy, his bride of two weeks, and then was slain by his wife's friends. Engelke said he was with the couple on the night of the killings.

"Duffy and Maybelle and I were having a drinking party that night," Engelke said, according to police. "Duffy and Maybelle got into an argument because she refused to eat lunch with us. Duffy pulled a gun and shot Maybelle. He forced me to stay with him for nearly 24 hours and often threatened to kill me. The last I saw of Duffy was when he got into an automobile with several strangers. I believe these men killed him and threw his body from the automobile."

Duffy's body was found near the outskirts of the city. A few hours later police went to his apartment and found the body of his wife.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—The soviet trade delegation will not begin its official duties until the arrival in a fortnight of Alexander Yazykoff, chief of the mission, it is announced. The members, Ivan J. In a statement, Mr. Kulik declared that negotiations between the Dominion and Russian governments would establish whether the delegation would remain as a consulate general or as an official diplomatic agency.

TO STOP GAMBLING

Governor Donahey Outlines Plans to Enforce the Laws.

Columbus, Feb. 28.—Plans he is to adopt to enforce anti-gambling laws throughout the state of Ohio have been outlined by Governor Donahey. He stated that county officials will be ordered to see that gambling is not permitted on race tracks; a personal representative to be at the race tracks to see that no hand-books or pari-mutuel betting machines are operated and officials will be ousted if they fail to stop gambling.

The governor said he approved the proposed investigation of the auto insurance business as inaugurated by State Senator George Bender, with the possibility of its control eventually passing under a system similar to the workmen's compensation act.

NOT AUTHORIZED BY MILLER ACT

Card Deputies Hold Positions Illegally, Says Crabbe.

ALL MAY BE FIRED, HE HOLDS

Retention or Dismissal Up to State Prohibition Commissioner, Says the Attorney General—Card Officers Drawing Sums in Some Cases, It Is Charged, to Which They Are Not Entitled—Hare Dissects.

Columbus, Feb. 28.—Appointment of "card agents" by the state prohibition department is declared by Attorney General Crabbe to be entirely without authority in law, and their activities illegal.

"There is no authority whatever for appointing these 'card' deputies, who go out over the state working in connection with justices of the peace," said Crabbe. "The law of Ohio is being violated in order to enforce another law, the prohibition law."

The Miller act, passed by the eighty-fourth general assembly, creating the present state prohibition department, does not authorize appointment of "card" prohibition officers, according to Crabbe. This act, as pointed out, provides for a prohibition commissioner, a deputy commissioner, not to exceed 20 inspectors and for the appointment of "such temporary inspectors as the emergency demands," their number to be fixed by the governor. These "temporary inspectors" shall be paid "not to exceed $10 a day and expenses."

The "card" agents are not paid by the state, but receive their compensation in percentages of the fines assessed against violators they arrest. They are issued cards by State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald and take their stations throughout the state. There are about 70 in the state.

Taking exception to Governor Donahay's recent statement that he would recommend to the next legislature that the "card" officers be abolished, Crabbe declared there was no necessity for such a recommendation. "There is no authority for them in the first instance," he said, "and legislation is therefore not required to remedy the situation. It is not necessary to wait for the legislature to prohibit their appointment."

Crabbe declared he believed the "card" agents are doing prohibition more harm than good. Thomas M. Hare, head of the Anti-Saloon league, challenges the attorney general's interpretation of the Miller law. He insists the Miller law does provide for the appointment of card deputies, saying they are named, on the recommendation of local organizations, when the local enforcement officers refuse to perform their duties.

FASCIST LEADER HEARD

Ludendorff, Hitler and Others Not Traitors, He Says.

Munich, Bavaria, Feb. 28.—General Ludendorff, Adolf Hitler and eight others on trial for treason were super-patriots and national saviors, not traitors, according to several witnesses. Dr. Friedrich Weber, head of the Oberland band, one of the most important of Bavarian fascist organizations, testified that the purpose of his organization was to "break the Versailles treaty at any cost and tear asunder the bonds binding Germany." His fascist, Dr. Weber said, wanted to "bridge class strife and create a new fatherland." He said he had believed Hitler to be the best man to unite the fatherland organizations, and that for this reason his "bund" co-operated with the fascist storm troops of Hitler.

AUTO TAGS INVOLVED

Plot Had Been Known For Weeks to the Prison Officials.

Columbus, Feb. 28.—Warden Thomas stated that the automobile license tax plot had been known to prison officials for several weeks. They made no attempt to break it up, he said, wishing to capture those involved outside the prison as well as the convicts. Several sets of tags have been surreptitiously shipped from the prison to a Cleveland man, believed to be a paroled prisoner, and for whom Cleveland police are hunting. The tags were not duplicates, but were originals stolen from boxes of tags. The plan was to have the man on the outside sell the tags below the state price.

SUSPECT QUIZZED

Claims Bride Was Slain by Husband and Latter by Girl's Friends.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—According to William Engelke, arrested here, John Duffy, Philadelphia gunman, killed Maybelle Exley Duffy, his bride of two weeks, and then was slain by his wife's friends. Engelke said he was with the couple on the night of the killings.

"Duffy and Maybelle and I were having a drinking party that night," Engelke said, according to police. "Duffy and Maybelle got into an argument because she refused to eat lunch with us. Duffy pulled a gun and shot Maybelle. He forced me to stay with him for nearly 24 hours and often threatened to kill me. The last I saw of Duffy was when he got into an automobile with several strangers. I believe these men killed him and threw his body from the automobile."

Duffy's body was found near the outskirts of the city. A few hours later police went to his apartment and found the body of his wife.

Await Arrival of Soviet Chief.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—The soviet trade delegation will not begin its official duties until the arrival in a fortnight of Alexander Yazykoff, chief of the mission, it is announced. The members, Ivan J. In a statement, Mr. Kulik declared that negotiations between the Dominion and Russian governments would establish whether the delegation would remain as a consulate general or as an official diplomatic agency.

TO STOP GAMBLING

Governor Donahay Outlines Plans to Enforce the Laws.

Columbus, Feb. 28.—Plans he is to adopt to enforce anti-gambling laws throughout the state of Ohio have been outlined by Governor Donahay. He stated that county officials will be ordered to see that gambling is not permitted on race tracks; a personal representative to be at the race tracks to see that no hand-books or pari-mutuel betting machines are operated and officials will be ousted if they fail to stop gambling.

The governor said he approved the proposed investigation of the auto insurance business as inaugurated by State Senator George Bender, with the possibility of its control eventually passing under a system similar to the workmen's compensation act.

Former Head of National League.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 28.—Thomas J. Lynch, 65, former president of the National league, died in this city following an illness of six weeks. He began his baseball career on the sand lots. Don't Shed Tusks

Among the Indian or Asiatic elephants only the male has the tusks, but they are found on both the male and female of the African species. Sometimes these tusks weigh from 150 to 200 pounds.

The tusks of the elephants are merely projections of the incisors of the upper jaw and are never shed, although they are sometimes broken off. In other words, the tusks are part of the elephant's teeth. However, the milk teeth, which precede the tusks, come out at an early age.

The tusks of the elephant supply the ivory which is so highly esteemed the world over for ornamental purposes.—Detroit News.

First Use of Gas.

The first use of gas as an illuminant was in the dwelling house of a Mr. Murdoch in Redruth, Cornwall, England, 130 years ago. Murdoch carried on his investigations privately for several years and in 1798 he fitted up an apparatus for lighting part of the manufacturing establishments of Boulton and Watt, near Birmingham. In 1805 Murdoch built a large plant for lighting a Manchester factory, which was very successful and stimulated other efforts in that line.

Don't Shed Tusks

Among the Indian or Asiatic elephants only the male has the tusks, but they are found on both the male and female of the African species. Sometimes these tusks weigh from 150 to 200 pounds.

The tusks of the elephants are merely projections of the incisors of the upper jaw and are never shed, although they are sometimes broken off. In other words, the tusks are part of the elephant's teeth. However, the milk teeth, which precede the tusks, come out at an early age.

The tusks of the elephant supply the ivory which is so highly esteemed the world over for ornamental purposes.—Detroit News.

A colored mammy came into the office of the estate for which she worked to receive her monthly wages. As she could not write, she always made her mark on the receipt—the usual cross. But on this occasion she made a circle.

"What's the matter, Linda?" the man asked. "Why don't you make a cross as usual?"

"Why," Linda explained earnestly, "Ah done got married yesterday an' changed mah name."—Dry Goods Economist.

First Use of Gas.

The first use of gas as an illuminant was in the dwelling house of a Mr. Murdoch in Redruth, Cornwall, England, 130 years ago. Murdoch carried on his investigations privately for several years and in 1798 he fitted up an apparatus for lighting part of the manufacturing establishments of Boulton and Watt, near Birmingham. In 1805 Murdoch built a large plant for lighting a Manchester factory, which was very successful and stimulated other efforts in that line.

Expensively Good

A matter-of-fact father of an embryo poet handed some of the lad's efforts to a distinguished author of verse, and asked for his opinion.

"Well, what's the answer?" queried the successful stockman.

"Alas!" sighed the real poet, "those things are so good, I'm afraid you'll have to support Henry the rest of his life."—Writer's Monthly.

MISS LAZENBY

Following in Footsteps of Father, Professor at Ohio State.

The Ohio State Journal printed the picture of Miss Elusina Lazenby, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Lazenby, of South Court street.

Her father was the late Professor William Rane Lazenby, one of the first professors in forestry at Ohio State university and the State Journal says:

"She is following in his footsteps. She is at the university taking graduate work in landscape architecture and acting as instructor in plant selection. She was graduated from Smith college in 1919 and later took postgraduate work at Cornell university. Miss Lazenby lives at 1540 Neil avenue.

"Professor Lazenby, her father, began his 30-year career at Ohio State university in 1881, as professor of botany and horticulture. In 1892 he was one of the founders of the forestry department at the university, of which he was the head at the time of his death in 1916. He is also credited with being the founder of the state agriculture experiment station, later moved to its present site at Wooster."

ELKS' FAIR

Good Crowd in Attendance on Opening Night—Carnival Spirit.

The opening of the Elks fair Wednesday evening was auspicious, a large crowd of 500 representative people of the city attended.

The fun was fast and furious and everything in the way of amusement was staged. The vaudeville stunts were good and pleased the audience. There was plenty of excitement and everybody was entertained to their heart's desire. A number of those who attended went home with baskets of groceries, hams and blankets that cost little and provided lots of fun in obtaining the property. Everybody is invited this evening. The Circle City band lent zest to the carnival by playing some good music and keeping the crowd in good spirits.

The cry of the barkers gave a regular carnival spirit to the fair, and made you feel like you were doing the Pumpkin Show over again. Don't fail to visit the Elks' fair tonight. You will enjoy the fun and spirit of the carnival. Help swell the coffers of the Elks' lodge. The show is on the boards for tonight, Friday night and Saturday afternoon and night.

Rival Odors.

If you feel that you are experiencing hard luck, think of the Oregon man who recently completed a comfortable rose cottage on the seashore, when the sad sea waves washed up a dead whale in front of his home, and now he's decided that it will be cheaper to move the cottage than the whale.—Boston Transcript.

AMUSEMENTS

A stout willow sapling recently saved Lois Wilson, Paramount featured player from being thrown from her horse fifty feet down a rocky precipice while riding out to location in the Tonto Basin, Arizona.

Miss Wilson plays the role of Ellen Jorth in the Paramount production, "To the Last Man" now at the Met theater and the accident was caused by an insecure saddle cinch. As she felt the saddle slipping sideways, she seized a willow tree above her head which broke her fall and prevented both horse and rider from plunging over the cliff. Miss Wilson sustained a few minor bruises and was found by

"To the Last Man"

Richard Dix, also a featured player in the production, who was hurrying along the trail.

Miss Wilson, who is an excellent horsewoman, was riding "Senator," the spirited horse which attracted such notice in Paramount's epic picture, "The Covered Wagon," a James Cruze production in which Miss Wilson played.

"To the Last Man" was directed by Victor Fleming and the scenes were shot in the hills of Arizona, 200 miles from a railway station. The story is historical and deals captivatively with a sanguinary feud waged in the eighties. The other featured players are Noah Beery, Robert Edson and Frank Campeau.

There are many scenes of great dramatic power while the live interest never lags. It is a most compelling photoplay. The supporting players include many screen artists of reputation and popularity.

MISS LAZENBY

Following in Footsteps of Father, Professor at Ohio State.

The Ohio State Journal printed the picture of Miss Elusina Lazenby, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Lazenby, of South Court street.

Her father was the late Professor William Rane Lazenby, one of the first professors in forestry at Ohio State university and the State Journal says:

"Professor Lazenby, her father, began his 30-year career at Ohio State university in 1881, as professor of botany and horticulture. In 1892 he was one of the founders of the forestry department at the university, of which he was the head at the time of his death in 1916. He is also credited with being the founder of the state agriculture experiment station, later moved to its present site at Wooster."

ELKS' FAIR

Good Crowd in Attendance on Opening Night—Carnival Spirit.

The opening of the Elks fair Wednesday evening was auspicious, a large crowd of 500 representative people of the city attended.

The fun was fast and furious and everything in the way of amusement was staged. The vaudeville stunts were good and pleased the audience. There was plenty of excitement and everybody was entertained to their heart's desire. A number of those who attended went home with baskets of groceries, hams and blankets that cost little and provided lots of fun in obtaining the property. Everybody is invited this evening. The Circle City band lent zest to the carnival by playing some good music and keeping the crowd in good spirits.

The cry of the barkers gave a regular carnival spirit to the fair, and made you feel like you were doing the Pumpkin Show over again. Don't fail to visit the Elks' fair tonight. You will enjoy the fun and spirit of the carnival. Help swell the coffers of the Elks' lodge. The show is on the boards for tonight, Friday night and Saturday afternoon and night.

Rival Odors.

If you feel that you are experiencing hard luck, think of the Oregon man who recently completed a comfortable rose cottage on the seashore, when the sad sea waves washed up a dead whale in front of his home, and now he's decided that it will be cheaper to move the cottage than the whale.—Boston Transcript.

FRANCES WILLARD MEMORIAL

A memorial in honor of Frances Willard, the founder of the W. C. T. U., will be held at the Evangelical church Friday evening, February 29. Everybody cordially invited.

AMUSEMENTS

A stout willow sapling recently saved Lois Wilson, Paramount featured player from being thrown from her horse fifty feet down a rocky precipice while riding out to location in the Tonto Basin, Arizona.

Miss Wilson plays the role of Ellen Jorth in the Paramount production, "To the Last Man" now at the Met theater and the accident was caused by an insecure saddle cinch. As she felt the saddle slipping sideways, she seized a willow three above her head which broke her fall and prevented both horse and rider from plunging over the cliff. Miss Wilson sustained a few minor bruises and was found by

"To the Last Man"

Richard Dix, also a featured player in the production, who was hurrying along the trail.

Miss Wilson, who is an excellent horsewoman, was riding "Senator," the spirited horse which attracted such notice in Paramount's epic picture, "The Covered Wagon," a James Cruze production in which Miss Wilson played.

"To the Last Man" was directed by Victor Fleming and the scenes were shot in the hills of Arizona, 200 miles from a railway station. The story is historical and deals captivately with a sanguinary feud waged in the eighties. The other featured players are Noah Beery, Robert Edeson and Frank Campeau.

There are many scenes of great dramatic power while the live interest never lags. It is a most compelling photoplay. The supporting players include many screen artists of reputation and popularity.

The deceased was born in Hocking county and was seventy-seven years of age. He was a widower and had been a resident of this city forty-two years.

He is survived by one daughter and two sons. They are Mrs. Grace Fowler and Fred Stevens, of this city and John Stevens of Washington C. H.

Of his immediately family one sister, Mrs. Libbie Davis, is living.

LEAKY GAS PIPE.
Escaping gas was discovered in the basement of the Crist building, corner of Court and Main streets by the janitor, John Lewis. The leak was under the sidewalk and when the iron pipe leading to the main in the street was dug up, it was discovered that the pipe was full of holes eaten evidently by electrolysis. Manager Forest, of the Logan Gas company, who was superintending the excavation, asks the public to cooperate with the gas company and whenever a leak of gas is found to notify the office at once so these leaks can be located. In this way you will prevent an explosion and save life.

Then and Now.
Women in the home used to be ashamed to sit down; there seemed to be a virtue in wearing themselves out! The housekeeper who saved herself, who did not dust every few moments, scrub on her hands and knees and do such tasks, was called lazy. The belief now is that the most intelligent housekeeper, the one who studies every new invention and saves every step and motion, is the most conscientious and sensible one. Sit down to vegetable paring and all tasks where it is practicable.

Strawberry Best
for Home Garden

New Plants for Spring Setting Can Be Purchased at Very Small Expense.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.
Strawberries are so easily handled and require so little room that if only one of the small fruits can be grown in the home garden they should have the preference. New plants for setting, out this spring can be purchased at small cost from a nurseryman, or perhaps may be obtained free from a neighbor. They may be transplanted from nearby at any time in the season if surrounded by a ball of earth, moved carefully and watered well. In either case, says the United States Department of Agriculture, the bed should contain some plants known as a perfect-blossom variety, otherwise the plants of the imperfect-blossom variety in the bed will not be pollinated and consequently will not bear fruit.

Two Kinds of Blossoms.
Strawberry blossoms are of two kinds. One kind is called perfect, staminate, or male, and the other kind imperfect, pistillate, or female. Some varieties have perfect blossoms and other varieties have imperfect blossoms. Those with perfect blossoms produce pollen which will fertilize both perfect and imperfect blossoms and enable them to bear fruit. The varieties with imperfect blossoms cannot set fruit without receiving pollen from perfect blossoms.

If both kinds are planted there should be at least one row of the perfect-blossom variety to four rows with imperfect blossoms. The nurseryman's catalogue will specify the kind of blossoms. Set the plants early in the spring, if possible, so they will get the benefit of the spring rains and make a strong growth. Trim off the dead leaves and all but one or two live ones and cut the roots to four or five inches long. Spread the roots somewhat and set the plants the same depth in the soil as they were before they were dug. Be especially careful not to set them deeper and not to get earth over the growing crowns, for this will probably kill the plants.

Set Close Together.
The plants may be grown in hills or in narrow or wide matted rows. For very small areas, plants set in hills close together will no doubt produce the most and largest fruit, but will require more care than matted rows. For hill growing, set the plants one foot apart in the row and have the rows just far enough apart to cultivate easily, say from two to three feet; or set two rows a foot apart in double rows and have a space of two or three feet between the double rows. Keep all runners cut off and give good cultivation, so as to make extra strong plants.

Vaccination Against Hog Cholera Is Wisest Plan

As there seems to be a considerable outbreak of hog cholera in the eastern part of Colorado, a reiteration of some of the well-known facts of this disease may not be amiss.

Cholera is the most serious disease of hogs which we have and the only one that causes unusually large losses in all aged animals. It is hardly conceivable that 50 or 75 per cent of a herd of hogs of various ages would be lost from any other disease. In spite of this there seems to be much uncertainty as to the diagnosis, one regarding it as pneumonia, another as necrotic enteritis, and various other diseases.

Vaccination of herds in which the disease is already widespread is often disappointing, but vaccination as a preventive measure is almost absolute and will be found profitable. This procedure is the greatest boon to the hog raiser which has ever been discovered, but unless it is used it cannot be expected to be very helpful. Everyone owning hogs in a district where the disease is known to exist should immediately vaccinate rather than wait until the disease attacks the herd. This will be found excellent and profitable insurance.—I. E. Newsom, department of pathology, Colorado Agricultural college.

Care of Farm Machinery Should Interest Farmer

Farm folks no doubt tire of reading about the care of farm machinery. It seems to be the open season on this subject at this time of the year, but there is just one thing that should bring the subject closer home right now than ever before and that is that it is now that farm folks are complaining most about the cost of producing farm crops and the wide difference in price levels of farm products and manufactured products. Now is the time to cut down the overhead and the item of depreciation on farm equipment.

Soy Beans Are Excellent With Corn for Silage

To be grown with corn for hogging down or to be pastured down with sheep, or to be cut with corn for silage, there is no question but soy beans should be more extensively raised in every state of the Union. We should also grow more soy beans for grain to be used for cattle and hogs in balancing feeding rations. The man who grows his own protein need not buy so much expensive tankage and other products rich in the muscle-forming elements.

CRIPPLE SAVES 100
WHEN HOTEL BURNS
Heroism of Syracuse Man Prevents Disaster.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Heroism of a crippled man was a vital factor in preventing a disaster when flames threatened the Hotel Warner, in which one hundred persons were asleep.

Arthur Prieur, one of the owners of the hotel, aroused by the smell of smoke, hobbled on crutches from room to room, aroused the endangered by thumping on their doors and made a quick checkup to see that all the guests had left the building. Rescue work was expedited by the arrival of firemen, and it was stated that within seven minutes after the alarm had been sounded the six-story building, opposite the New York Central station, was evacuated.

Only one guest was reported injured. John E. J. Clare of New York, who slid down a rope from the fifth floor and fell to the ground unconscious when several feet above the sidewalk.

More than a score were carried down ladders.

After Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hall and little daughter Mary of New York were on a fire escape, the child remembered that she had left her doll in her room. Despite the density of the smoke she insisted that her father save the doll. With the plaything safe in her arms Mary consented to go down the fire escape.

More than half the guests at the hotel were women and at no time was there any sign of panic. Women and children came down the fire ladders as calmly as did the men.

The damage to the building was estimated at $30,000, caused mostly by water. The blaze started in a cellar from an undetermined cause.

St. Louis.—The development of ethylene, a new anesthetic, was described by Dr. A. B. Lockhardt and Dr. J. B. Carter, its discoverers, before the closing session of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology recently.

Although objection to its use as an anesthetic has been made because of its odor and because it may explode if exposed to flames, or a spark, Doctor Lockhardt, who read the paper, said ethylene was being used successfully and that experiments have shown that it produces no ill effects even on children and old men. Ethylene is being successfully used also, he asserted, to ripen oranges and lemons artificially.

Ethylene, Doctor Lockhardt declared, is present in automobile exhausts and the fumes from an untrimmed kerosene lamp. It also has been found in illuminating gas.

Their Jealousy
Cured

By JUDY BLAIR

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"GIVE her something to be jealous for," suggested Hamblin.

Mrs. Hamblin nodded assent. "That's the only cure, Harry," she said. "If once she had some reason to be jealous of you, maybe she wouldn't be so absurd about ridiculous things like that girl in the shop."

Grey wrinkled his forehead in thought. The Hamblins and the Greys were old friends, but Mrs. Grey's jealousy of her husband of five years' standing was threatening to disrupt his home. If he spoke to a girl, if a girl smiled pleasantly at him, like the girl in the department store, he heard about it for days.

"It's the only way," said Hamblin.

"Who—?" began Grey.

"Oh, I guess you could borrow Kitty, as far as that goes," Hamblin answered.

"Sure, I'll be glad to help you out, Harry," said Mrs. Hamblin. "You're wife's a nice, sensible little woman, but so far as that eternal jealousy of hers goes, I've no sympathy with it at all. She's simply destroying all your happiness."

"That's exactly what she is doing, hers and mine," said Grey. "And we're really fond of each other, too; that's the absurd part of it."

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Kitty Hamblin; and the three conspirators put their heads together.

The Greys attended the dance at the Country club that week. The Hamblins were there, too. Kitty and

Anna Grey exchanged gossip—Kitty was the only woman whom, for some reason, Anna was not jealous of. She let Harry dance with Anna without demur, but let him dance with any other woman, and his wife's eyes flashed a salvo of gunfire at him.

The first time Harry danced with Kitty Anna looked quite the same as usual. The second time he could see, out of the corners of his eyes, that she was taking interest. The third time—and they were dancing with their faces very close together—Anna's eyes flashed dangerously.

"It's working," whispered Kitty. "Just look at her! My, you're in for a scene, Harry! I only hope you manage to cure her, that's all."

With her arm drawn through his she accompanied him to a secluded part of the club veranda. It was very secluded, very quiet there, and overhead was a nice, romantic moon. Kitty took her seat beside Harry upon a bench behind some ornamental shrubbery. She peered through the leaves.

Suddenly she squeezed Harry's arm.

"She's found us," she whispered.

Looking through the leaves of the ornamental shrubbery, Harry saw the dim outlines of a waiting form, which he recognized as his wife's.

"You may kiss me now, Harry," said Kitty.

The kiss that broke the silence of the night sounded like the bursting of a motor car tire. A gasp came from the other side of the shrubbery. Next moment, as the pair emerged, they saw Anna Grey weeping hysterically in the shadows.

"Poor kid," said Kitty. "Let's go and tell her."

Anna looked up with a tearful face as they approached.

"Listen, my dear—" Kitty began.

"Oh, you've got your excuses ready, no doubt," sobbed Anna. "You're a bad, wicked woman to lead my husband astray."

"Honest, Anna, we knew you were there, and it was just a joke—"

"Oh, I won't stay and listen to those falsehoods!" Anna cried. "Harry!

Harry, you must choose between us once and for all!" she cried, dramatically. "Which is it? Which?"

"Why, you, Anna, of course," stammered Harry. "But honest, it was a joke, and—"

She flung her arms around his neck. "Oh, Harry, it's so noble of you trying to shield her!" she cried. "It's just like you. I've always been so proud of you, and I just knew you could attract the ladies if you wanted to, and I was so angry you wouldn't, and I wanted you to make me jealous so that you'd be dearer to me than ever."

"Um—yes," answered Harry thoughtfully.

CRIPPLE SAVES 100 WHEN HOTEL BURNS

Heroism of Syracuse Man Prevents Disaster.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Heroism of a crippled man was a vital factor in preventing a disaster when flames threatened the Hotel Warner, in which one hundred persons were asleep.

Arthur Prieur, one of the owners of the hotel, aroused by the smell of smoke, hobbled on crutches from room to room, aroused the endangered by thumping on their doors and made a quick checkup to see that all the guests had left the building. Rescue work was expedited by the arrival of firemen, and it was stated that within seven minutes after the alarm had been sounded the six-story building, opposite the New York Central station, was evacuated.

Only one guest was reported injured, John E. J. Clare of New York, who slid down a rope from the fifth floor and fell to the ground unconscious when several feet above the sidewalk. More than a score were carried down ladders.

After Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hall and little daughter Mary of New York were on a fire escape, the child remembered that she had left her doll in her room. Despite the density of the smoke she insisted that her father save the doll. With the plaything safe in her arms Mary consented to go down the fire escape.

More than half the guests at the hotel were women and at no time was there any sign of panic. Women and children came down the fire ladders as calmly as did the men.

The damage to the building was estimated at $30,000, caused mostly by water. The blaze started in a cellar from an undetermined cause.

Armless Man Uses His Feet to Play Cornet

London.—James Elroy, thirty-five years old, a performer at the Olympia in London, who was deprived of his arms in a fire while a child, but who has learned to use his feet to accomplish everything that one can do with their hands. He dresses, shaves and feeds himself and is a rifle shot and good cornet player. Before entering the show business he was an engraver. The photograph shows Mr. Elroy playing the cornet.

New Anesthetic Is Used to Ripen Oranges

St. Louis.—The development of ethylene, a new anesthetic, was described by Dr. A. B. Lockhardt and Dr. J. B. Carter, its discoverers, before the closing session of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology recently.

Although objection to its use as an anesthetic has been made because of its odor and because it may explode if exposed to flames, or a spark, Doctor Lockhardt, who read the paper, said ethylene was being used successfully and that experiments have shown that it produces no ill effects even on children and old men. Ethylene is being successfully used also, he asserted, to ripen oranges and lemons artificially.

Ethylene, Doctor Lockhardt declared, is present in automobile exhausts and the fumes from an untrimmed kerosene lamp. It also has been found in illuminating gas.

Strange Malady Hits 1,000

Leavenworth, Kan.—Nearly 1,000 persons in Leavenworth are reported suffering from a strange malady with symptoms which recently baffled physicians in Santa Anna, Cal. The victims are attacked suddenly with nausea and become ill, but usually recover within thirty-six to forty-eight hours.

Sweden Electrified

Stockholm.—Sweden has bought her last steam locomotive. She expects to electrify all of her railway lines within ten years, the operating power to be developed almost entirely from the many waterfalls of the country.

Ice Imprisons Man in Ship's Crow's Nest

New York.—An icy blast of 100 miles drove spray of tall seas above the crow's nest of the Scandinavian-American liner Hellig Olav, in recently from Copenhagen, and she was so tightly frozen up forward that the lookout in the crow's nest signaled for help. They rescued him with rope and tackle. The foremast was a massive ice stalagmite.

Their Jealousy Cured

By JUDY BLAIR

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"GIVE her something to be jealous for," suggested Hamblin.

Mrs. Hamblin nodded assent. "That's the only cure, Harry," she said. "If once she had some reason to be jealous of you, maybe she wouldn't be so absurd about ridiculous things like that girl in the shop."

Grey wrinkled his forehead in thought. The Hamblins and the Greys were old friends, but Mrs. Grey's jealousy of her husband of five years' standing was threatening to disrupt his home. If he spoke to a girl, if a girl smiled pleasantly at him, like the girl in the department store, he heard about it for days.

"It's the only way," said Hamblin.

"Who?" began Grey.

"Oh, I guess you could borrow Kitty, as far as that goes," Hamblin answered.

"Sure, I'll be glad to help you out, Harry," said Mrs. Hamblin. "You're wife's a nice, sensible little woman, but so far as that eternal jealousy of hers goes, I've no sympathy with it at all. She's simply destroying all your happiness."

"That's exactly what she is doing, hers and mine," said Grey. "And we're really fond of each other, too; that's the absurd part of it."

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Kitty Hamblin; and the three conspirators put their heads together.

The Greys attended the dance at the Country club that week. The Hamblins were there, too. Kitty and

Anna Grey exchanged gossip—Kitty was the only woman whom, for some reason, Anna was not jealous of. She let Harry dance with Anna without demur, but let him dance with any other woman, and his wife's eyes flashed a salvo of gunfire at him.

The first time Harry danced with Kitty Anna looked quite the same as usual. The second time he could see, out of the corners of his eyes, that she was taking interest. The third time—and they were dancing with their faces very close together—Anna's eyes flashed dangerously.

"It's working," whispered Kitty.

"Just look at her! My, you're in for a scene, Harry! I only hope you manage to cure her, that's all."

With her arm drawn through his she accompanied him to a secluded part of the club veranda. It was very secluded, very quiet there, and overhead was a nice, romantic moon. Kitty took her seat beside Harry upon a bench behind some ornamental shrubbery. She peered through the leaves. Suddenly she squeezed Harry's arm.

"She's found us," she whispered.

Looking through the leaves of the ornamental shrubbery, Harry saw the dim outlines of a waiting form, which he recognized as his wife's.

"You may kiss me now, Harry," said Kitty.

The kiss that broke the silence of the night sounded like the bursting of a motor car tire. A gasp came from the other side of the shrubbery. Next moment, as the pair emerged, they saw Anna Grey weeping hysterically in the shadows.

"Poor kid," said Kitty. "Let's go and tell her."

Anna looked up with a tearful face as they approached.

"Listen, my dear—" Kitty began.

"Oh, you've got your excuses ready, no doubt," sobbed Anna. "You're a bad, wicked woman to lead my husband astray."

"Honest, Anna, we knew you were there, and it was just a joke—"

"Oh, I won't stay and listen to those falsehoods!" Anna cried. "Harry!

Harry, you must choose between us once and for all!" she cried, dramatically. "Which is it? Which?"

"Why, you, Anna, of course," stammered Harry. "But honest, it was a joke, and—"

She flung her arms around his neck. "Oh, Harry, it's so noble of you trying to shield her!" she cried. "It's just like you. I've always been so proud of you, and I just knew you could attract the ladies if you wanted to, and I was so angry you wouldn't, and I wanted you to make me jealous so that you'd be dearer to me than ever."

"Um—yes," answered Harry thoughtfully.

WASHINGTON

Editor of Democrat and Watchman Gives Impressions of National Capital.

The chamber of commerce Tuesday evening, February 26, had the pleasure of listening to a description of the National capital, as seen thru the observing eyes of J. W. Johnson, senior editor of the Democrat and Watchman. Mr. Johnson has a habit of seeing whatever there is around worth seeing and he brought back a most accurate description of the beauties of the cities of Washington and Alexandria and of Arlington Memorial cemetery and the tomb of the father of his country at Mt. Vernon.

The glory of the Capitol is seen at its best at night when the white lights of a thousand and one electric lamps is cast in a flood of light on the dome. You think you are in fairy land. He also told of the beauty of the Washington monument. Lincoln memorial, Mt. Vernon and the Masonic temple now in course of construction at Alexandria, Virginia.

In Memoriam.

Editor Union Herald:—Henry Phillips, son of Daniel and Mary Magdalene Phillips, was born in Amanda township, Fairfield county, October 1, 1838, and died February 24, 1924, aged 85 years, four months and 23 days.

Mr. Phillips was baptized in infancy by the Rev. Herron, then pastor of the Warner Evangelical Lutheran church of East Ringgold. He was the last of his family. His father, mother five brothers and six sisters having preceded him in death. He leaves to mourn a number of nieces, nephews, cousins and a host of friends.

Mr. Phillips had been making his home with his nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, for a number of years. This home was near the old home where he was born and on the same farm. Here he spent his boyhood days and again when he became a boy, because of the weight of years, he returned to pass his remaining years and to step out into the great beyond near the place of his birth.

Mr. Phillips had been complaining for several months of heart attacks until on Friday night, February 22, when on retiring he fell and from the shock and injury, he died Sunday night at 11:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips gave all the tender care and aid possible together with the physician but to no avail. They had given him while in their home the attention as a father, making everything as pleasant for him as it was possible for them to do. Mr. Phillips was a busy man and had been noted for his ardent, progressive and busy life. He was a man after whom we could model in honesty, thrift and temperate character. He had a wide acquaintance of friends and all who knew him respected his ardent principles for his words were facts and as reliable as his signature. The community has lost a good citizen, a helping friend and one of the pioneers of the neighborhood. His life will live in our memory with a hope of everlasting life.

The funeral services were held from the Lutheran church at East Ringgold Wednesday afternoon, February 27, conducted by Rev. Elder Shoemaker, of the Baptist church. Burial in Reber Hill cemetery.

All good tools should be wrapped up, otherwise they will rust, and rust dulls their cutting edges. The careful carpenter wraps his tools in a woolen cloth, well oiled. STAR CHAMBER

Democratic Editor Strenuously Objects to Hand-Picked Cox Delegates

In a recent letter to the Ohio State Journal, J. W. Johnson, editor of the Democrat and Watchman, registers a vigorous kick against the star chamber method of selecting hand-picked Cox delegates to the coming national convention.

Mr. Johnson says:

"In our office mail on last Saturday there was received a communication from the Democratic state headquarters, 710 Hartman building, Columbus, to the effect that a meeting of the Democratic committeemen of the Eleventh district had been holden in Circleville Circleville on Thursday, February 21. No notice that such a meeting had been published in any of the local papers or in any of the district papers, so far as we have been able to ascertain.

"The communication goes on to say that M. A. Daugherty of Fairfield and Garrett S. Claypool of Ross were selected, not as candidates, but as delegates to the national convention in New York on June 24. A Mr. E. C. Rutter, also of Fairfield, was chosen not as a candidate, but as the elector from the Eleventh District. Mr. W. W. Durbin, of Hardin county was made national committeeman from Ohio and Mr. I. F. Snyder was modestly selected to succeed himself as member of the state central committee.

"In a column and a half report of the meeting, the esteemed Cincinnati Enquirer, on Friday morning went on to say that Daugherty and Claypool had been selected as Cox delegates, the inference being that the other selections, mentioned above were also made because of a preference for Cox as a presidential candidate.

"No fault is being found with the holding of a district committee meeting, but wherefore the secrecy surrounding it? It is customary to give newspaper publicity to meetings of this character; at all events, it is customary to invite representatives of the press to be present. Moreover, Democrats at large are entitled to a knowledge of what is going on, as well as to the privilege of being present should they so desire.

"Mr. Cox's reply to Mr. Campbell is not a declaration of candidacy at all. He (Mr. Cox) says that he has no inclination to enter into any contest for delegates and only acquiesces in the request that he permit his name to be used in a candidate sense.

"The opinion prevails, generally that James Cox is not a candidate in any real sense. If he has one-tenth of the political acumen he is credited with possessing, he knows that the cards are stacked against him at this time. For two months past, the writer has inquired of almost every Democrat he came in contact with and he is prepared to report that in a referendum between Mr. Cox and Mr. McAdoo, Mr. McAdoo would win three or four to one. Here in Pickaway county that ratio would be increased.

"Within the next few days, Mr. Snyder will be called upon to explain why he deemed it necessary to hold a quiet meeting of the district committee and select hand-picked delegates and other officials in the interest of a man who, apparently, is only a candidate of convenience.

"My, Snyder, Mr. Daugherty, Mr. Claypool, Mr. Rutter, Mr. Durbin and others have a perfect right to be for Mr. Cox, but they certainly have no sort of right to take such action, in such a way, as savors of a purpose to deny a very large majority of Democrats the prerogatives which belong to them in the matter of selecting political representatives."

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.

There is no higher success than
